"Using technology and community-led innovation to close the health equity gap for Black and diaspora women, both in the UK and in African markets — addressing not just their physical health but the invisible emotional and systemic burdens they carry."

WHAT WE DO

Community first. Always.

We don't parachute in with solutions. We sit down, listen, and build trust before we build anything else. Our work happens in three connected phases.

01

LISTEN

Community listening sessions where Black and diaspora women share their health experiences in their own words — in safe,

02

CO-DESIGN

Participatory workshops where the same women who identified the problems shape the solutions — working alongside health intimate settings across London. We collect stories, not just statistics.

professionals as equal partners, not as research subjects.

03

INNOVATE

Technology and community tools built from evidence gathered directly from our community — designed to be trusted, accessible and genuinely useful to real women in real lives.

ABOUT IMPACTWEAVE

We are of this community.

ImpactWeave is a Community Interest Company registered in England and Wales, founded in October 2025. We exist because the mainstream health system and technology sector have consistently failed Black and diaspora women — not through accident, but through structural indifference.

We are not an outside organisation observing this problem. Our founder is a Black African diaspora woman with lived experience of navigating health systems that were not designed with her in mind. That insider knowledge is not incidental to our work — it is the foundation of it.

Right now, we are in our first phase: building deep community relationships and generating the evidence base that currently does not exist. Before we build technology, we listen. Before we design solutions, we ask what is actually needed.

Our ambition extends beyond the UK. We are building a model that can reach African markets — connecting diaspora communities here with the health challenges facing women across the continent.

A NOTE FROM OUR FOUNDER

"I started ImpactWeave because I kept seeing the same pattern: brilliant, resilient Black women navigating health systems that dismissed them, dismissed their pain, and sent them home without answers. We deserve better — and we deserve to be the ones designing what better looks like."

Founder, ImpactWeave CIC

Community-led. The people most affected by a problem are best placed to solve it. We exist to resource and amplify that power.

Evidence-grounded. Our work is built on real data from real women — not assumptions, not proxies, not someone else's research.

Radically honest. We name the structural failures clearly. Health inequity is not a personal failing — it is a systemic one.

Long-term. We are not here for a project. We are here for lasting, systemic change — in the UK and beyond.

GET IN TOUCH

We'd love to hear from you.

Whether you're a Black or diaspora woman who wants to be involved in our community research, a funder or partner interested in our work, a health professional who wants to collaborate, or a journalist covering women's health equity — we want to hear from you.

ImpactWeave is at an early and exciting stage. Every conversation we have shapes what we build next.
